Back of Controller

Control Stick Function

The Nintendo 64 Controller contains a Control Stick which uses an analog system to read the angles and direction of its movement. This allows subtle control that is not possible using the conventional + Control Pad. When turning the Control Deck power ON, do not move the Control Stick from its neutral position on the controller.

If the Control Stick is held at an angled position (as shown in the picture on the left) when the power is turned ON, this position will be set as neutral. This will cause games using the Control Stick to operate incorrectly.

To reset the neutral position once the game has started, let go of the Control Stick so it can return to its center position (as shown in the picture on the left) then press start while holding the L and R buttons.

Game Introduction

Xena has fought fiercely to save the stolen Talisman of Fate from Despair, the Champion of Dahak. In the midst of heated battle, both have laid their hands on the Talisman and claimed control over the Destiny of the World. We, the Fates, declare that a contest must decide.

Xena has the task of choosing the defenders of the world. We have seen them in her mind! The battle for the right to control Fate itself will be fought by Earth's greatest heroes and greatest villains. Plus Joxer! And the last who remains must then challenge... Despair.

Main Menu

Select the different options with the control stick. Press A Button to accept, Press B Button to cancel and return to the previous menu.

Quest Mode

Quest Mode allows a player to compete in the full tournament for the ultimate prize, the Talisman of Fate. The player battles each opponent in turn up, to the final enemy, D  sair. This mode can also be played cooperatively with two players. This is the only mode that does NOT allow four humans to play simultaneously. Winning Quest mode in a short amount of time will also let the player enter his or her initials for the high score screen.

Vs. Mode

Vs. Mode allows up to four human or computer players to compete against each other in a single fight consisting of several battles. In this mode, players can team up (using the C buttons) with each other or with computer players to vary the game play and difficulty. For example, a single human player could play against a team of three computer-controlled opponents. As another example, two humans could play on one team against a human and computer opponent teamed against them.

Roster Mode

Roster Mode is similar to Vs. Mode and allows the same options, but it also allows the player to select more than one character before the battle begins. In the battle, when the player's first selected character is killed, the next character selected joins the battle in progress and fights in place of the defeated character.

Practice

Practice mode has no time limit and allows human and computer players to practice basic moves, combos, special attacks, etc. The health of any warrior in practice mode is automatically raised to maximum after a warrior is wounded. By pressing Start during the play, you will access to the practice option menu where you can set up your opponent behavior and strength.
